Joseph Meek Wins Illinois GOP Primary
Velde Has Easy Time; Voting Lowest In Yrs.

CHICAGO (AP) — Joseph T. Meek, who calls himself a "no-label, unhyphenated Republican," romped off with the Illinois GOP senatorial nomination early today in the nation's first primary of 1954.

The 50-year-old head of an organization of 60,000 Illinois merchants, Meek has said he would support most but not necessarily all of President Eisenhower's policies. But he says, too, he is neither "a Taft-Republican nor an Eisenhower-Republican."

Yesterday's balloting produced no surprises, no upsets, no real tests on national issues, and probably the lightest vote of any Illinois primary in at least 10 years.

All 25 Illinois House members were renominated, including four committee chairmen who overpowered varying degrees of competition.

In next November's Senate race, it will be Meek, a man who never has run for public office, before, against Paul H. Douglas, a first-term Democrat.

Douglas had no opponent in the Democratic primary.

Meek easily outdistanced Edward A. Hayes and left seven others in a nine-man field strung out back in the dust. Hayes is a former national commander of the American Legion.

Robert B. Chipfield, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, finally beat back the challenge of Atty. Lawrence Stickell and took the Republican Congressional nomination in a district he has represented 16 years.

Harold H. Velde, chairman of the Un-American Affairs Committee, had an easier time of it with Robert Allison, a state representative for 20 years.

Chairman Leo Allen of the Rules Committee pushed past three opponents with no trouble, and Chairman Chauncey Reed of the Judiciary Committee took a pair of contestants into camp.

All four chairmen were expected to win. And their victories probably will result in Republican claims that they offer an endorsement of the administration program and the way it is being handled in Congress.

Low vote and all, this was one primary that went off strictly according to the dope in the form sheets.

Quick Action To Save Cotton Crops Is Needed

BATON ROUGE, April 14 (Special) — Louisiana farmers run the chance of losing their whole oat crop if they don't give immediate attention to the extermination of the army worms, warns Kirby L. Cockerham, L. S. U. agricultural extension service entomologist. By actual count, army worms have already been found in the oat fields in Concordia, Tensas, Madison and Avoyelles parishes by E. C. Burns, entomology scout. The army worm has also been found on one sugar cane field in Iberia parish and infestation was heavy enough to justify treatment.

Farmers and county agents are urged to watch the oat fields for damage from these worms. They may also injure wheat and rye. They do very little damage, however, to clovers and similar crops.

If infestation justifies treatment, dust the fields with 20 per cent toxaphene or 10 per cent DDT, recommends Cockerham. Dieldrin has label approval by the USDA for control of army worms. Follow the instructions on the label. When the oats or other crops are small 10 to 12 pounds dust per acre will be sufficient, but when the growth is large or rank the poundage should be increased.

For further information, consult the county agent.

Parish Health Unit Tax Election Okayed

With only one dissenting vote, the Ouachita Parish police jury Wednesday morning voted to call an election of a three-quarter mill tax to support the parish health unit and a one and three-quarter tax for the maintenance of parish roads. The single juror voting against the two taxes was G. P. Avant, Ward 5 member.

The three-quarter mill tax for the support and maintenance of the parish health unit was in accordance with a letter to the police jury by a committee of the Ouachita Parish Medical Society. The tax, if approved by the property owners of the parish in an election, will be for a period of five years. If passed, it will bring in approximately $56,000 annually and will replace the funds being donated by the parish and other local agencies. State and federal monies will continue to be given the local unit.

Added to the resolution calling for the election of a health unit tax was a one and three-quarter mill road maintenance tax, which has been long advocated by some members of the police jury as a means of providing funds for the upkeep of parish roads. This tax, if approved, will bring in approximately $115,000 yearly and will make possible the blacktopping and maintaining of other parish roads at a greater pace than at present.

In other action the body voted 15 to one to join a mutual assistance agreement with eleven other parishes in the district for civil defense aid. The local body will continue to donate $100 per month to the maintenance of the district headquarters, located at 400 Stone avenue in Monroe. For the past six months the body has been giving $150 per month.

The single dissenting vote in this was again G. P. Avant. Other parishes joining in the mutual assistance agreement are Tensas, Franklin, Richland, Union, Lincoln, Caldwell, East Carroll, West Carroll, Madison, and Morehouse.

Appearing before the group to urge the passage of the agreement was A. B. Clarkson, director of District F.

Also appearing before the group was Harry Wood, representing the Ouachita Parish wildlife association. Wood pointed out that he was seeking "no money, but only support" in the efforts of the local organization to get more restocking of wildlife and fish in Ouachita Parish.

The representative stressed that Ouachita Parish ranked fourth in the state for the number of hunting and fishing licenses sold last year, yet received very little in the way of restocking. The parish wildlife organization will attempt to get state officials to commit themselves on releasing deer and other game animals and birds in the parish and wants the approval and backing of the police jury before presenting its requests to state wildlife officials. The jury voted unanimously to support the local group.

Speaking in behalf of a group of Ward 5 residents, A. L. Vatter asked that the police jury commit itself as to when roads just outside the city of West Monroe can be blacktopped. After considerable discussion, the group said it could make no definite commitment, but would probably get to the blacktopping the "latter part of May." The project, which has been brought up at previous meetings, has been listed as the second item for the road maintenance crew in

Bidault Warm To 10-Nation Alliance Idea

PARIS (AP)—British-American proposals for a military alliance to block Communist aggression in Southeast Asia were accepted by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault in discussions today with U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, informed sources said.

A 10-nation pact is contemplated under the arrangements announced in London yesterday by Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

No official announcement of results of the Dulles-Bidault talks had been issued by mid-afternoon. But informants said Bidault approved the Dulles-Eden plan because it "reconciles the views of the two great European powers with those of the United States."

This morning's talks were devoted entirely to the Far East situation, especially that in Indo-China.

The informants gave this account: Bidault began with an expression of thanks to the United States for the material aid granted the French Union forces in Indo-China. He explained France wishes to reach a solution of the Indo-Chinese conflict "as quickly as possible in order to meet her obligations toward the Indo-Chinese Associated States and suppress once and for all the dangers of Communist intrusion in this sector so important to Southeast Asia."

Dulles replied with a detailed account of his talks in London and an explanation of the 10-nation alliance which he and Eden have suggested.

The French-American discussions were extremely cordial, although Bidault stressed that the French are opposed to any measures being taken before the April 26 Geneva conference on Asian problems.

The foreign minister and the secretary of state first met privately, then were joined by their aides.

After the talks, Bidault was host to Dulles and his aides and French ministry officials at lunch.

Dulles later was to meet Premier Joseph Laniel and perhaps ex-Empress Bao Dai, chief of state of Viet Nam.

Faulkner Sets Up Trust Fund

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Famed novelist William Faulkner didn't spend a penny of the $30,000 he was given when he won the Nobel Prize for literature.

The entire amount was placed in a trust fund, administered by a three-man board, to be used for "worthy" causes here in Lafayette County.

Part of the fund has been spent on scholarships for talented but penniless students.

Faulkner never mentioned the trust fund, set up shortly after he was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1950. His wife outlined his action today in response to a query from the Memphis Press-Scimitar.

Faulkner now is in Cairo, Egypt, working on a script for a film. He is expected home around June 1. Mrs. Faulkner said. His latest book, "The Fable," is due for publication in the fall.

Solons Adopt Wait-And-See On Scientist
'Blank Wall' Is Ordered Around Oppenheimer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional groups took a wait-and-see attitude today toward the government's suspension and investigation of pioneer atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer on security grounds.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), declining to elaborate, said he has affidavits purporting to show that Oppenheimer once was a member of the Communist party—an affiliation the scientist has categorically denied.

From two other persons familiar with the case came statements that the accusations against Oppenheimer had been reviewed and discounted years ago. In notifying him of his suspension, however, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) spoke of "additional investigation" last year.

The AEC said in a formal statement yesterday that President Eisenhower had ordered "a blank wall" placed temporarily around Oppenheimer, one of the chief developers of the atomic bomb, and secret data to which he has had access for over 10 years.

Pending the report of an AEC investigating panel headed by former Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray, Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) fixed a hands-off policy for the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

And McCarthy told newsmen Oppenheimer's suspension was a "long overdue—it should have been taken years ago," he has no plans how to get into the case with the

Leases On 2,018 Acres Off Coast Set For Bidding

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Leases on some 2,018 acres off the coastline of Lafourche and Terrebonne parishes but well within the three-mile limit are set for competitive bidding by oil companies today.

The state mineral board said the off-shore leases will be the first offered since October, 1948. The bulk of off-shore leasing will be offered at a meeting July 14, however.

Board secretary C. J. Boncarrere said that a portion of the leases offered today "should definitely extend partially out into the Gulf of Mexico," and he added:

"If we receive no protests from the federal government this morning, we may open up bidding on areas out to the historic boundaries (10 miles) at the July meeting."

Boncarrere said the interest in the area offered today probably was heightened by the recent supreme court decision not to hear suits filed by Arkansas, Rhode Island and other states contesting the constitutionality of the submerged lands act, which returned tidelands jurisdiction to the states out to their "historic boundaries."

The historic boundary of Louisiana has never been fixed, and the coastline itself is arbitrary. Oil exploration since 1948 has been within the coastline.

Gov. Robert F. Kennon has been working for federal legislation to fix Louisiana's "historic boundary" at ten miles, in line with the undisputed areas controlled by Florida and Texas.

Boncarrere said the feeling of the oil companies—off-shore leases would not be known until their bids are submitted and opened. The bids usually are turned in ten minutes or less before the time limit, which is 10 a.m.

Highway Funds Agreed Upon

WASHINGTON (AP)—House-Senate conferees have agreed on a compromise bill authorizing $966,000,000 a year in federal aid for highway building.

The legislation meets President Eisenhower's request for a sharp increase in federal highway spending which now runs about $675,000,000 a year.

The House had originally authorized $875,000,000 a year during fiscal 1956 and 1957. The Senate had passed a bill authorizing $1,010,000,000 annually.

Eli Plummer and Nick Edwards will be in the second primary to be held May 18. Plummer received 300 votes and Edwards 358. The third candidate in the race, James Walter Bradford received 117.

A run-off will also be held in the marshal's race between Clyde S. Richardson, incumbent, who received 329 votes and Dee Taylor, 210. The other two candidates in the race were Bill McClure who received 114 votes and Spencer D. Bradford, 117.

Unofficial complete tabulations in the Jena aldermen's race was as follows: M. F. Humphries, 544; O. O. Chapman, 391; James A. Hodges, 491; Bill Bridges, 491; R. J. Bridges, 399; C. A. McCarney, 461; I. B. Robertson, 457; Virgil Terral, 504.

Voters in Tallulah returned W. T. Sevier, Jr. to the office of mayor by a three to one vote over his opponent, Emmett C. Craig. Sevier received 884 votes and Craig, 255.

Banking Group Races For 1st Crack At FHA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee raced today to beat the field to a public investigation of a multimillion-dollar housing scandal that apparently has flourished under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind) summoned his committee to a closed session to prepare for a quick start of a "full and complete" probe aimed at ferreting out "the facts and the truth" of charges that Federal Housing Administration (FHA) officials allowed unscrupulous home repair salesmen to cheat unsuspecting householders.

The Banking Committee, said Capehart, also will investigate allegations that slick apartment house promoters—aided by either dishonest or inefficient FHA officials—pocketed millions out of government-guaranteed loans pegged well above the cost of their projects.

Complaints of abuses under the home improvement program, it has been disclosed, were made under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

Suspect apartment project financing occurred under the post-World War II "middle income" housing program, which expired in 1950.

The alleged irregularities and administrative laxities came to light Monday night when the White House abruptly announced that FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday had resigned the post to which President Eisenhower had named him a year ago.

Yesterday, Eisenhower named Norman P. Mason, a Massachusetts lumber dealer, to serve as acting FHA commissioner while the executive branch—the parent Housing and Home Finance Agency and the FBI—pushes its probe.

Capehart seemed somewhat miffed when he was told that Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) had announced his Joint Congressional Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures would hold a hearing on the situation next Tuesday.

"I don't know what authority Sen Byrd has over this," Capehart said. "There can be no question that this is our concern."

The Banking Committee has jurisdiction over housing matters.

Both Byrd and Capehart said they had alerted government housing chiefs to apparent skullduggery long ago.

Byrd said he told officials last July that "unconscionable profits" were being made. Capehart, who said he will ask the Senate for $150,000 to conduct his probe, claimed "we have repeatedly warned" housing officials to police loan insurance activities with care.

In Oklahoma City, Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews said his agency was re-

Hope To Speed Ratification By Agreement To Stay As Long As War Threatens

LONDON (AP) — Britain pledged today to keep troops on the European continent as long as there is a threat of aggression.

To speed French ratification of the six-nation European Army Treaty, Britain also ordered to integrate Army and Air Force units in the European Defense Community.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced the pledge in the House of Commons. Britain also ordered to integrate Army and Air Force units in the European Defense Community.

West German units would be included in the projected one-unit European army.

The U.S.-backed EDC treaty has been ratified by the Netherlands, Belgium, West Germany and Luxembourg. Only Italy and France have yet to enact the treaty legislation.

The British pledge represented an effort by London to meet a condition attached by the French Assembly to its own consideration of the treaty—closer British association with the defense organization.

Eden told Commons that Britain regards the 20-year NATO pact "as of indefinite duration, and are confident that it will develop as an enduring association for common action between the member states."

Explaining the agreement reached yesterday with the six EDC countries, Eden said:

"Her Majesty's government has undertaken to continue to maintain on the mainland of Europe, including Germany, such armed forces as may be necessary and appropriate to contribute a fair share of the forces needed for the

Chief Of Anti-Red Refugees Beaten, Taken To E. Zone

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police officially announced late today that the head of an anti-Soviet organization of Russian refugees was "forcibly abducted" last night by East German Communists who first beat him into unconsciousness.

The police account confirmed an earlier claim by the refugee group and also hinted the kidnapping was carried out through betrayal of the anti-Soviet leader by a friend.

Police said Alexander Truchnovich, 61, chairman of a Russian refugee organization called NTS, last night visited the home in the British sector of Heinz Glaeske, a district head of a German organization of returned prisoners of war.

Witnesses told police that later an unidentified man was seen coming downstairs from Glaeske's apartment, carrying the unconscious Truchnovich over a shoulder. Glaeske accompanied the two, carrying a rolled-up rug under his arm. Also with them was a woman who waved bystanders away with the statement: "We must go to a first aid station."

The party was seen to enter a black limousine which was waiting outside with a chauffeur. The car drove off toward the Soviet sector.

Science Marches On, But So Does Folklore Cures

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP) — Science may march on, but many an American still fondly remembers—and believes in—those sure-fire cures for warts he used as a child.

This report comes today from the scholarly Library of Congress which collects everything, including wart cures.

"We get hundreds of these cures," Dr. Duncan Emrich, chief of the library's folklore section, said. "The best part of it is, no two are exactly alike."

Emrich has been appearing on a national radio network each Sunday for a five-minute report on folklore. During these periods he encourages listeners to send in samples of wart and hiccup cures, tongue-twisters, tall tales and folk speech remembered from their childhood.

"Our serious effort to collect that which otherwise would be lost."

"The response," he said, "has been fantastic."

Cures and tall tales have come in so rapidly that Emrich is 1,000 letters behind merely in acknowledging their receipt.

Usually, material such as this has been collected by sending out scholars to interview oldtimers. Emrich's method not only is far faster and cheaper, but the stories are told in the rememberer's own words.

"Wonderful," the doctor said.

Here's the way Mrs. Elizabeth Foster of Quincy, Mass., says in her own words how her warts were cured:

"In my home when I was a child in Everett, Mass., I had many warts on my right hand, big seedy ones. The cure was for these, to take a piece of white black-board chalk, stroke them one by one at the same time invoking the Blessed Trinity—in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

"Then make as many strokes with the chalk on the side of the parlor stove. When the strokes on same became obliterated by heat the warts would miraculously disappear."

"This is the absolute truth."

In checking on a nation's heritage, nothing is too insignificant for the folklorist. Such as this tongue-twister from W. B. (Red) Kennedy of Magee, Miss.:

"Pa's pa, pete, poked the pea patch to pick a peck of peas for

Homeless Given Shelter, Food By Salvation Army

The transient welfare committee of the Salvation Army advisory board, composed of Kenneth Blue, chairman, Miss Nona Martin and Judge Jesse Heard, Wednesday presented to the public the work accomplished by the Salvation Army during the month of March for homeless men and women.

Even though funds have been withdrawn from the Salvation Army which it had been handling the transient welfare program, 158 men were given lodgings, 122 meals were served, 78 garments or shoes were supplied, and 10 wires were sent to relatives for verification of legal residences of women and children who needed to be given transportation. Eighteen persons were given transportation from Monroe to their proven legal residences.

Mr. Blue, chairman of the transient committee, points out that it isn't only men who come to our city without place to sleep or eat. During the month of March there were 35 women and children receiving sleeping accommodations and meals at the Salvation Army office.

The Salvation Army is now trying to get its own transient lodge where it can sleep men under supervision.

Or the descriptive remarks, like this one from Missouri:

"He's so stingy he'd chase a mouse to hell for a pumpkin seed."

Or the place names, such as the community in Kentucky. Not big enough for a postoffice, which was called "Gnawbone." A Frenchman had named it Narbonne after the French town, but after the pioneers chewed over that, Gnawbone it was.

A new nation, feeling its oats and on the prowl, is a lusty critter, and no one is more aware of that than the folklorist man. Emrich collected the ballads bawled out in Virginia City, Nev.

The title of the book they made gives a hint of the life led in the old mining town:

Back Sales Tax Collection More Than Expected

NEW ORLEANS — Collector of Revenue Rufus W. Fontenot said collection of back sales taxes in New Orleans exceeded his expectations.

Fontenot said yesterday he estimated delinquent sales taxes in New Orleans at between three and four million dollars and in the state about eight million.

"Early in March we brought a special squad of 15 deputies from all sections of the state into New Orleans," Fontenot said.

"The collected and assessed sales tax for one month exceeded my expectations. For the entire state it amounted to $583,264; for New Orleans the total was $344,714."

Fontenot said tax collectors recently sought and obtained an injunction against a businessman to prevent him from operating his business until delinquent sales taxes were paid.

Kremlin Has Bad Luck With Spy Agents

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

The Kremlin is having bad luck with its spy agents.

Vladimir Michalovich Petrov, the spy chief of the Russian secret police in Australia, has come over to the West.

He follows in the steps of Igor Gouzenko, confidential code clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, Canada, and Yuri Rastvorov, spy chief in Japan.

Petrov told the Australian security and intelligence organization, that he surrendered.

"I no longer believe in Communism since I've seen the Australian way of living."

That is a weak spot in the vast Soviet spy system. The MVD, the secret police, sends its most trusted men abroad to spy. They see how people live in free countries, and sometimes they choose freedom.

When Gouzenko surrendered himself to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in 1945 he turned over documents which rocked the Western world. They led to the imprisonment of atomic scientists of Alan Nunn May and Klaus Fuchs in great Britain and the execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in this country.

Just what information Rastvorov gave when he handed himself over to the United States intelligence agency in Tokyo last January is still not known. But it is understood he disclosed every detail of Soviet spy activity in Japan—which would include Korea.

Petrov, when he surrendered, handed over documents which Australian Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies said involved both other MVD agents in Australia and members of the Australian Communist party.

The Australian Communist party is believed to have only about 12,000 members. It is losing ground but it still controls the seamen's union, which includes dock workers who recently refused to load war goods intended for Indo-China.

First dispatches said the Petrov documents did not concern attempts to ferret out the British-Australian atomic and guided missile tests in the Monte Bello Islands and the Woomera rocket range. But this could come later.

Petrov was third secretary of the Soviet embassy in Canberra. Rastvorov was second secretary of the Soviet mission in Tokyo. It is customary for the second or third secretary in a Soviet embassy to be the MVD man. He spies not only on the country to which he is assigned, but on fellow members of the embassy.

Mansfield Urges Speedy Freedom For Indo-China

WASHINGTON, April 14 —UP— Sen. Mike Mansfield urged speedy action on independence for Indo-China Wednesday to prevent the Geneva conference from leading to "unmitigated disaster" and possibly even to "world war III."

He declared the whole effort in Indo-China is "doomed to eventual failure" if the French do not win the wholehearted support of the natives by converting promises of full freedom into deeds.

If the free world does not strengthen its position before it meets Russia and Red China at Geneva, Mansfield said "the most we can hope for is a postponement of the crisis. At worst," he added, "we can expect an unmitigated disaster."

The Montana Democrat, a member of the Foreign Relations committee, gave his views in a major, 3,500-word speech prepared for delivery in the Senate. At the same time, the committee called Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson for closed-door questioning on military and foreign problems, including Indo-China.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) proposed Tuesday night that Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa be thrown into the Indo-China fight. And Sens. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) and Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) applauded the Anglo-American decision to press for a southeast Asia alliance against communism.

Mansfield urged that seven steps be taken before Geneva to set the wheels in motion for Indo-China's full independence and to give this action official U.S. and Allied backing.

Mansfield said the failure in Indo-China so far is not due to the French military effort or the lack of United States aid. "The failure lies in the political realm," he said.

BIG BUILDING

There are 93 acres of offices and stores in the Merchandise Mart, Chicago's giant among the world's buildings of commerce, which covers two full city blocks of the busy waterfront.

Benson Refuses To Combine Flexible And Rigid Supports

WASHINGTON, April 14 —UP— Agriculture secretary Ezra T. Benson has rejected a proposal to combine rigid and flexible price supports as the answer to current farm problems, it was learned Wednesday.

Sen. Henry C. Dworshak (R-Idaho) suggested last week that the combined system could be used to protect small farmers' incomes and curb overproduction by big-scale operators.

Benson turned it down in a letter saying the "basic solution" to the problem of the small farmer is larger operations and more efficiency.

He said the Dworshak proposal "would create additional administrative and other) problems without solving the current surplus situation or large government acquisitions" through the price-support Commodity Credit Corp.

The essence of Dworshak's plan is this: Government supports at a high level — 90 or 100 per cent of parity — would be offered on, say, the first 2,000 bushels of wheat produced by a farmer. Any excess over 2,000 by the same farmer would be supported at 75 per cent of parity, or some other low level. Dworshak suggested a "similar approach" for other commodities, including dairy products.

REDS BLOW UP TRAIN

PNOM PENH, Cambodia, April 14 —UP— Communist rebels blew up a train between here and Battambang and early reports said 60 persons were killed, French authorities announced Tuesday night. Many more were injured in the blast on the 150-mile line running northwest from this Royal Cambodian capital, authorities said.

Sentence Held Up On Rep. Bramblett

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. District Judge Walter M. Bastian today held up any sentence for Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R-Calif.) until the Supreme Court can pass on his conviction on charges of falsifying his payroll in a salary kickback scheme.

Judge Bastian held that there is reasonable doubt "as to whether the law under which Bramblett was convicted applied to the charges against him."

The government now will carry the case directly to the Supreme Court in an effort to set aside Judge Bastian's ruling.

The judge explained the situation in a formal opinion:

"If the Supreme Court affirms the decision of this court, the case will be finally determined favorably to the defendant.

"Should the Supreme Court reverse the decision of this court, the case will be finally determined against the defendant and the only matter remaining will be the return of the case to this court for sentence."

News-Star Editorials

More On Nationalitis

Some weeks ago during the Bricker proposal controversy, this newspaper discussed at length the growing trend of "nationalitis" or the idea that the national headquarters of an organization not only determined the policies of the nationwide organization, but made absolutely certain that the policies were followed. Not a few days following that discussion, a voter's organization in this community followed the national organization's edict and severely denounced the Bricker proposal.

The move was made by the board of directors of the organization, not by the membership. Numerous members then called or contacted the News-Star and voiced their opposition in written form to the statement. Another discussion was published concerning the situation as regards the "nationalitis" entering this community through the voter's organization. It is remembered that the editorial was hotly refuted and the League of Women Voters' president in Monroe answered with a letter to the Public Forum explaining the actions of the League as regards the voting procedures. The explanation attempted to demonstrate that the League's decision came from the grass roots.

The Shreveport Times, at the same time, also discussed the League somewhat along the same lines as did this paper. It also came under considerable fire from the state officials of the League. The News-Star stated at the time that the League of Women Voters could certainly vote any way it so pleased as a free American organization, but it deplored the particular decision as regarded the Bricker proposal in that great influence had been seen coming from the national board.

This was hotly, almost intemperately denied.

The News-Star reiterates the statement made then, that the League's decisions do not all come from the "Grass Roots." It uses the words of the League's national president, Mrs. Lee, to back up its statement. In the "National Voter" of May 15th, 1953, among other things, Mrs. Lee stated concerning the meeting of the national council, "The Council strongly reaffirmed support of the UN, agreeing that the League must renew efforts to build an accurate understanding of the UN in our communities. It felt that the League's great contribution will be to promote fair examination of the facts to alleviate growing public confusion and dissatisfaction."

This newspaper heartily agrees that a fair examination is needed concerning the "U. N." and itself, has examined the "U. N." very carefully. The Council of the League made the above decision, however. Continuing from Mrs. Lee's letter, "Delegates were gravely concerned lest the passage of the Bricker Amendment jeopardize constructive foreign policy action by the administration. However, uncertain of the degree of membership preparation and opinion, the Council felt it would be necessary to stimulate further discussion in local Leagues before a position is reached."

The President thus advised the national membership that the Council was against the Bricker proposal. Later, when the Council finally acted, it claimed that the entire national apparatus had voiced an opinion. Mrs. Louise Killen of Orlando, Fla., one of the board members, came through Monroe recently and explained that there had been a mail poll taken. She stated that "an overwhelming majority" of the League members were against the proposal. She added that only two or three per cent were for the proposal. She claimed that the letters amounted to more than eighty per cent of the members. After careful consideration, and canvassing, it was learned here that many local members had never expressed an opinion one way or the other and that the local chapter had not taken a vote prior to the action by the national council.

In any case, Mrs. Lee continues, "We will support renewal of the reciprocal Trade Agreement Act with continued disapproval of existing restricting amendments and opposition to new ones. The Council agreed that the League should support a simple one-year extension of the present law to allow the administration time to develop its proposals for a more liberal trade policy." What else has the Council agreed that the League should support? This newspaper is in agreement concerning the trade policy as advocated by the League, but wonders whether the council's influence did not go a long way towards developing membership decisions. In a closing paragraph Mrs. Lee states, "The council also advised the board that it desired action against the proposed constitutional amendment to limit federal income taxes to 25 per cent. State Leagues will be alerted to watch for such measures in their legislatures."

The League of Women Voters is apparently an offshoot of the National American Suffrage Association. It was organized in February of 1919 in St. Louis, Mo., by the late Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, a well known pacifist and internationalist who was at that time the leader of the suffrage association. It was officially launched at the 51st and final convention of the Suffrage Association. Some of the issues which have been supported by the League since its inception are, international control of manufacture and shipment of arms, revision of war debts owed the U. S. by foreign nations, unemployment relief insurance, Federal Social Welfare, merit system in civil service, ratification of the World Court Pact, birth control, reduction of the navy, and the Griffin bill (to relieve an alien seeking naturalization papers from taking an oath to bear arms in defense of the U. S.).

The League is affiliated in 39 states, Hawaii and the District of Columbia. The League was created "to support needed legislation and to foster education in citizenship." It supposedly takes no part in partisan politics. As with many other similar "information" organizations, great effect is seen to come from the national headquarters.

It is merely a growing American tendency.

Love Poems For Sweethearts

A report from Tokyo reveals that a new field for retired Army officers has been opened up by a pair of Japanese colonels.

In a shop on the Ginza they compose love poems for sweethearts who are not satisfied with the ordinary, prosaic love letters. They charge according to the intensity of the passion to be expressed.

This is good news, because now many an American soldier, facing retirement, won't have to worry about not having enough rank to get important jobs with big corporations. Let the big brass have those. All the small fry will have to do is get a ream of foolscap, sharpen a pencil, and wait for the Muse to strike him.

There never is any dearth of people in love in this country, so the GI Byrons and Shelleys will never lack for customers. And writing love poems is a snap, as I will prove in this column. I don't know an iambic from a pentameter, a sonnet from a saga, but I stretched out in a hammock this morning, closed my eyes, and knocked off the following love poems in less than half the time. I bet, that it took Shelley to finish "Prometheus Unbound."

Ode to My Love

You're the chip in my mink,
The rac in my coon,
The hour in my swiggle
The man in my moon,
The babe in my woods,
The wax in my candle,
The bank in my teller,
The sand in my sandal.
So cease being generous with all of your charms
And come back and be the one in my arms.

A Dehydrated Sonnet to Sue
Put your little paw in mine
And we'll wander the meadows like the kine.
But unlike the kine who stop to moo,
When we stop it'll be to bill and coo.

To Busby

Let other girls have Tom, Dick, or Harry,
Or Rudolph, or Michael, or Gus.
You're the one I have chosen
Whose hair I most want to muss.

To a Certain Miss Garvey

My dear Miss Garvey, I love you so,
I'd love to hug you in sunshine or snow.

And I'd hug you so tight, dear Miss Garvey,
That I'd stop the circulation of your blood.

Which was discovered by an English doctor named Harvey.

For Becky

My heart's a flying saucer,
Skimming through the skies,
Ever since you looked into my eyes.

And said you were through with all other guys.

To a Girl in Dotted Swiss

You're in my heart and I'm out of my mind,
I'm putting vinegar on my pan-cakes;
Throwing away the heart of watermelons,
And eating the rind.

Any soldier facing retirement who wants to use these poems to start his business, is welcome to them.

My Wife Says: "Jaundice Turns People Yellow"

NEW YORK (AP)—Something has happened in our house that I am not sure I can face.

I would just as soon not talk about it at all—but it seems that there is nothing else I want to talk about more.

"The basic thing about you, Rover," said my wife, Frances, "is that you are a coward."

"I still can't figure how you went through the second World War without catching jaundice, which I understand turns people yellow. You were born yellow, and any physician who looked at you and didn't mistake you for a lemon was either near-sighted or color blind."

Then she sighed, and I thought added very graciously: "I don't doubt you have physical courage, whatever that is, and I suppose that is what you must have demonstrated on the battlefield, or they wouldn't have let you stay overseas with the soldiers for four years."

"The thing about you, Rover," my wife continued, "is that you are a moral coward. You may be able to face a loaded gun without fear (Boyle's note: She is mistaking me with a captain I introduced her to who once won the Medal of Honor in a few moments of abandon), but you can't face tomorrow. Anybody who loves yesterday as much as you do has to be a coward."

I suppose she is right. A woman who puts up with the same man 16½ years in a row probably has ceased him pretty well.

But to get back to what happened in our house. It's the baby. Eight months ago a surprising thing interrupted our lives.

A sleek black limousine pulled up to our door, from which alighted a five-week old baby girl, clad—naturally—in a small and unattractive mink diaper. We are unable to prove this because my wife, who, unfortunately for her, is allergic to mink, discarded the damp diaper and surrounded the infant with a local towel.

We came to love the baby, and she gained weight—a sure sign of prosperity, even among the young —and bowed her head and took the name of Margaret Tracy Ann Kathleen Boyle. Or, as we call her, Tracy.

Well, you know how this life is. You try to plot and plan it, and suddenly, a stranger comes in and changes the whole tempo.

Folks are different. I know a guy who dreams that some morning he will wake up and find that somebody has put a slot machine in his rumpled room. But I would just as soon wake up and find that an orphan's home had moved into my house.

I love babies—fat, crinkly babies, and I like 'em wet or dry. I love them when they laugh, and I love them when they cry. I think any grownup must really love a baby more when it cries than when it laughs, because he can help it more—and that's what grownups are probably for.

Now (this time for sure) I'll get back to what has happened in our house and made me feel so blue. Tracy, that infantile betrayer, will soon be 10 months old, and the signs of decrepitude accompany everything she does.

She came to us as a baby, and now she is turning into a human being. This was not part of the bargain, and she has broken the rules. It is so much more difficult to love a human being than a baby.

"Listen, proud flesh," said Frances, "Quit yearning for yesterday. Tracy has to grow up. It's her duty. Don't you want her to walk and talk like normal people?" Oh, no, angel, not like the others. Grow feathers. Fly . . . fly . . . always fly. Daddy will catch you if you fall.

Fair Enough By Westbrook Pegler

The Press Has Fallen Into Bad Habits

NEW YORK, April 14 — I find it impossible to outline a criticism of the American press and to propose remedies or controls without violating the spirit of freedom of the press. However, the press certainly has faults which are dangerous to the people and these should be discussed for the benefit of the public. In a spirit of fellowship our papers and magazines refuse to speak ill of one another lest general recrimination should ensue, but this is not good for either the public or the press.

Roy Howard used to say, "It is an evil bird that fouls its own nest," but I say the press has fallen into bad habits and that no other force in our country is as well qualified to expose and discuss its intentional evils and unintentional errors.

We who are actually the press, the men and women who write for and produce the publications know how human we are. We know very well that there are certain taboos and that the prejudice and personal animosity of one man, or that man's wife, may cause information to be held back from the public or published in distorted form.

A few days ago a dispatch from London said Winston Churchill was getting a robust ribbing from the press of London over the H-bomb deal. It was the worst blow to his power that had befallen since he ran the Marxists out of office. I examined this dispatch and discovered that this disapproval was expressed by the Times of London and some other London and provincial papers.

And what are these papers? They are words in ink on white newsprint. That is all they are. Whose words are these words? Well, they are the words of anonymous individuals who may have dishonest or selfish motives for saying this or that or suppressing information. The individuals may be high-minded and mistaken or sinister schemers taking a delight in the manipulation of public opinion.

At any rate, when the anonymous individual who is actually the spirit and voice of the Times of London, speaks his piece, he speaks with a power which is vast by comparison with that of another individual Englishman who may be just as wise and honest or much more so. The editor may have the power to overthrow a government which the people would rather retain in office.

I got back to 1910 in our press, but I will not pretend that my ideas during my formative years were very intelligent. The Socialists then howled that the press of our cities was controlled by the department stores. I didn't believe it, but I didn't have much sound information one way or another.

However, I do know that nowadays editors have become handshakers and speech-makers. They go to banquets of all sorts of business associations and politico-religious groups organized to exert "pressure." They accept and sometimes award medals, scrolls, plaques and the like which are just trash or no moral value whatever. One does it because he knows that if he doesn't do it his opposite number on the opposition paper will leap at the chance.

They think or pretend to think that they are taking the pulse of the leaders of the community at these things but in real fact they are listening to their masters express their desires. Don't tell me I am wrong. I know so, does every other newspaperman and so do most of the dominant business men and the politico-clerical element of banquets.

I was a little startled by my own audacity recently in giving consideration to a suggestion that the press be investigated by Congress. It would have been unthinkable to me 10 years ago. But now I had arrived at a realization that with our tremendous power to play on public opinion we had developed no great editors except great in the sense of bigness.

Henry Luce has become a giant in this respect, but he certainly is no moral giant. Go back over his career and observe the deliberate cultivation of a style of nasty abuse and the adoption of a Jerked-English gibberish invented by Britton Hadden, his early partner in "time," and you will see that the man never was the sort of person who should be trusted with such enormous power over the minds and thus the fate of the people. He takes digs at people for personal reasons, leaving the public with a distorted idea of their character and conduct. I can list many individuals in more or less public life who invariably get a dirty deal from Luce no matter what the facts and circumstances may be.

Would you say that a publisher who, for profit only prints a columnist whom he knows to be a liar and blackmailer is any better, morally, than a druggist who sells cocaine to teen-agers for the same motive? Yet every publisher in the business knows that a columnist who answers this description is widely published by newspapers including some which have frankly admitted that he is a liar and blackmailer.

I find nothing to bear out any contention that the press had a finer moral character 50 years ago. I find that it was about the same in this respect. But I doubt that so few individuals ever exerted so much influence over the affairs of this nation. There are only a handful of publishers now and the power they wield seems to be much greater and more immediate than the power of the many competitive operators of say 1900.

Joe Kennedy recently said in effect that Republican publishers were making a bad political mistake this year in not creating "unity" for the party. I disagreed. I said that on the contrary, most of them were trying to convince themselves that a Socialist program is Republican and are "supporting" Eisenhower by suppressing criticism of his policies and ability. On top of that, however, I insisted that the press should practice journalism, not politics.

Bill Hearst wrote with perfect honesty in the summer of 1952 that it was the personal decision of his late father, "Pop," as Bill affectionately called him, which decided the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt by the Democratic convention in Chicago 20 years before. "Pop" did this by releasing the Garner delegation to Roosevelt. There were other details but that is the gist of it and that is exactly how it happened that we got Roosevelt for four terms and the awful disaster to western civilization and the rise of Soviet power and the military menace of the Oriental millions.

To be sure, Mr. Hearst did his patriotic best to reverse his own mistake with Landon in 1936, but that is beside the point. Actually one man, aging and aloof on a mountain overlooking the Pacific made a decision by telephone which was responsible for all the consequences to the whole world.

That is the Power of the Press. (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Shouldn't Have Said That

NEW YORK —Log of a Thought

Peddler: Saw a picture of the late Supreme Court Justice, Fred M. Vinson, in a book review section the other day, and it reminded me of a near-catastrophe. It was in Washington and I was on the panel of a TV program I used to do, "Who Said That?"

It was a big shindig and we were putting on the show from a stage at a banquet attended by the President, and many dignitaries, including the then Chief Justice, Mr. Vinson. I disremember the precise wording but in reply to some query of the quiz-master, Robert Trout, I discoursed on the theory that people should look like what they are, endorsing it heartily and adding, the Lord only knows why: "Right now we have a Chief Justice who looks like a baseball player." Once out, the remark didn't sound well at all, it was a sort of cross between sheer impertinence and bad taste, which I had not intended. Silence fell over the banquet hall. "Maybe," I maybed. "I shouldn't have said that." My friend, Mr. Trout, the turncoat, said with the smile of a fiend: "No, you shouldn't." For once I had gumption enough to seize the situation by the forelock. With a verbal momentum roughly equal to the force of a locomotive under full head of steam, I launched myself. "What I meant was that the Chief Justice doesn't look like just ANY baseball player, he looks like a good—a star—baseball player and to me there is absolutely no finer looking man than a star of the diamond." I said it with emphasis and a ring of sincerity worthy of William Jennings Bryan. The silence broke, a solid laugh from the house followed and my willing full dress shirt front got hold of its starch. They told me later that Mr. Vinson laughed the hardest of all. May his memory always stay green.

After all these years — Immortality. A news game called "Swayze." This is it, this is the millennium. I remember when Joe E.

Lewis, the night club star, worked my name into the lyric of one of his songs. "Now," said a wag, "You're famous." Not so, this, rather it is. Joking aside, "Swayze," appearing on store counters just about now or very soon, is a darned good game, fun and nudging the brain in a not-too-tough, not-too-easy workout.

There is an old theory that spring brings on a touch of closeness to the normally liberal, and those who are a little close anyhow become downright stingy. Whether it be true I know not, but I do have at hand a story stressing thrift. It concerns the wealthy British merchant, Richard Russel, who was exceedingly conservative with expenses. However, he allowed himself one dash of near-frivolity, he attended the Drury Lane theater almost nightly. But he always arrived sans topcoat. Next door to the playhouse was a pawnshop. Each evening, Russel pawned his outer coat there, redeeming it after the play at the expense of only a halfpenny, considerably less than he would have had to tip the cloak room girl at the Drury Lane!

An Angry Crowd In Paris

WASHINGTON, April 14 — For almost two weeks I have waited in vain for some reaction by our liberal hemophiles to the scandalous assault on the Premier and Defense Minister of France by an angry mob of 5,000 during ceremonies at the Arc De Triomphe in Paris honoring the dead of the Indo-China War.

It seems that this return to near-anarchy by a Parisian mob is to be ignored by the Left-Wing clique which ordinarily doesn't miss an opportunity to sniffishly deplore any similar demonstration in the United States. There are those with typewriters for hire who use reams of paper to sound the alarm whenever isolated incidents seem to them to threaten our laws and orderly processes.

An angry crowd in Paris, however, kicks and slaps Premier Joseph Laniel, shouts vile epithets as he makes his way through a wedge of gendarmes to his limousine, tried to overturn the official state car, and not one of our usually alert gang of bleeding hearts finds time to comment on such a disgusting spectacle of mob hysteria.

Defense Minister Rene Pleven came in for even rougher treatment at the hands of his fellow countrymen when he was manhandled, roughed up, his glasses knocked off and saved from what undoubtedly would have been serious injuries only through the intervention of his military aides.

The fury of the mob resulted from intense French opposition to the European Defense Community as now envisaged with West German participation. Marshall Alphonse Juin, France's top soldier, has assumed the leadership of the faction in the Republic that opposes ratification of the European Army Treaty in existing form.

He has put in blunt terms the obvious truth that France wants no part of the program so long as it demands equal status for Germany and considerable financing from all cooperating nations. Marshall Juin was confident of wide support before he chose to embarrass the government by breaking with the cabinet.

The French are anxious to continue collecting as much as two thirds of the cost of financing the war in Indo-China from the United States, but will artfully dodge any heavy contribution on its part to EDC. France simply will not extend itself through internal taxation to support with adequate funds the idea of containing communism in Europe, let alone in some other part of the world.

Marshall Juin has become the focus of popular support since his break with the Laniel government, and the disciplining of the French soldier by the cabinet and the reprimand by NATO simply reinforced his position as a political leader to be reckoned with.

Premier Laniel and Defense Minister Pleven felt it imperative to chastise Marshall Juin by relieving him of the highest French military posts, and the outbreak in Paris was a popular demonstration of mass anger against the authorities.

MOPSY By Gladys Parker

We can best grasp the significance of this latest incident by visualizing a crowd in the United States assaulting and abusing President Eisenhower and Defense Secretary Wilson during a public appearance at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier honoring Americans who died in Korea.

As perplexing as our day-to-day problems continue to be, it seemed reasonable to expect at least a few paragraphs to be written by the self-appointed sentinels of press and radio who ordinarily range far and wide seeking precisely such incidents to publicize.

If America is to be scolded for an occasional outrage fomented by individuals or groups, certainly the alarming display in Paris should so scandalize the liberal scribblers as to spur them to an immediate denunciation of such outrageous conduct.

Perhaps we are hasty. Even now there may be sober contemplation in the ivory towers of the pundits on how best to cleave principles from politics.

Monroe AIEE Planning Nuclear Energy Power

To the average man on the street, the atomic age began on August 6, 1945, when the first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. To the utility engineer, however, the date of October 22, 1933, would be more appropriate. It was this date that the atomic energy commission (AEC) announced its plans for the first full-scale nuclear reactor to be used solely for the production of electrical energy. Thus was announced the birth of the nuclear power plant.

With the reality of the approaching atomic energy power plant, the Monroe sub-section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will have a lecture by J. E. Barkle on the generation of electrical energy with the use of atomic fission. The lecture will be held at "The Barn," West Monroe, at 7 p. m. April 22. This was announced by H. M. Rhodes, program chairman.

The lecture will consist of the "make up" of nuclear power plants. The design of economic power plants will be discussed as pertaining to the electric utility industry. At the present, nuclear energy power generation isn't competitive with the conventional plants it was stated. Mr. Barkle will reiterate these points with the basic reasons and facts, along with the AEC's policy. These and other data will be discussed from the stand point of the effect nuclear energy will have on the electric utility industry.

Two Convicted Of Frog-Hunting

Since the season for taking bullfrogs and lagoon frogs closed on April 1 for the months of April and May, two violators have been convicted for this offense, the enforcement division of the state wildlife and fisheries commission disclosed today.

Apprehended on April 5 by Ranger J. H. Britt as they were hunting frogs in Cross Lake, George Brown and Charles Everett Hammond, of Shreveport, were arraigned before Justice Sam Bostwick, at Blanchard. They were convicted and each was fined $25 plus court costs.

Altogether, 49 convictions for violation of Louisiana game and fish laws were made last week, the commission reported. Those in northeast Louisiana were as follows:

Catahoula parish: At Jonesville, Justice Tal C. Gibson fined Chris Fondas and Mrs. M. J. Fondas, of Texarkana, Tex., $12.50 each and court costs for fishing without non-resident licenses. They were arrested by Ranger Allen D. Swayze.

Grant Parish: Mrs. Gertrude Branch, Montgomery, was fined $12.50 by Justice Roy Nugent, at Colfax, for fishing commercially without a commercial license. Rangers Edgar Shipp and Jack Coleman made the arrest. Nancy Geiling, William Baum, and Stacy Lambert, Pineville, were fined $12.50 each at Pollock, by Justice Drew Bandy, for angling without a license. Ranger Shipp made the arrests, with the assistance of Ranger Wesley Slay.

Barkle graduated from Carnegie Institute of Technology, in 1939, and has been associated with the electric utilities since. After Barkle completed the graduate course, he went to work in what was then called Central Station Engineering. He received his training as a utility engineer, while an exchange student with the Detroit Edison Company.

Barkle is currently serving as secretary of the committee on power conservation. He is a member of the committee on relays and is serving on a number of subcommittees and working groups. He has authored a number of technical papers and is a contributing author of the electrical transmission and distribution reference book.

Hugh Balfour, chairman of the Monroe subsection of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, invites all engineers of this area to attend the meeting and of course those interested in joining the institute to make application for membership.

Fair Trade Law Of Louisiana To Be Explained

Consumers and businessmen in Monroe next week will have an opportunity to hear how the fair trade law of Louisiana is said to have fostered fair competition and prosperous stable communities when Maurice Mermey, director of the bureau of education on fair trade, arrives here on Wednesday, April 21, for a series of addresses he has been invited to make before local groups.

Known as one of the country's experts on the fair trade laws, Mr. Mermey has addressed business and trade groups and consumer organizations over the nation to show how the fair trade laws passed by 45 states have benefited the whole economy.

The bureau director's speaking engagements in Monroe include a half-hour television program on a local station April 21, at 8 p. m. At noon, April 22, he will address the Monroe Rotary Club and on Thursday April 22 at 7:30 p. m. he will speak before the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Another Group Leaves Camp Polk

CAMP POLK, La., April 14 (Special) — The growing list of departing military units from Camp Polk added another name this morning as the 122nd ordnance company loaded up its trucks and convoyed out the gates bound for North Carolina.

The 122nd company, commanded by Lt. Cecil Courcier, is the only non-37th division unit from Camp Polk participating in exercise flash burn at Fort Bragg, N. C. The unit will be attached to an ordnance battalion and will support U. S. forces fighting the aggressors.

In the midst of advance training, the company interrupted its program in the third week for maneuvers. Lieutenant Courcier said he plans to resume training when his company reaches its permanent station at Fort Sill, Okla., about June 1.

The company is well-known at Polk for its heavy maintenance work. It was commended by Post Ordinance Officer, Col. Francis Shipton, in February for its part in repairing over 100 tanks at Polk in record-shattering time.

The 122nd is the second unit to move out this week. The 928th medical ambulance company left Monday for exercise spearhead at Fort Hood, Tex. The advanced party of the 145th infantry regiment, part of the 37th division, also began moving out this morning for exercise flash burn, but the main body of the 145th regiment will be airlifted to North Carolina from Alexandria Air Force Base at a later date not yet disclosed.

Miss Carrie Dee Drew Is Hostess To April Meeting

The local branch of American Association of University Women met at the home of Miss Carrie Dee Drew last week. "How to Elect Officials Acceptable to Women" was the topic of a discussion led by Mrs. H. S. Cannon and Mrs. Elmer Slag. It was recommended that women realize their potential power as citizens by taking part in politics and offering themselves as candidates for office. After the careful selection of candidates women should weigh the qualifications of candidates and assess their ability, training, experience, background, stand on crucial issues, and character.

Unrelenting labor, done individually and through organizations, will present evidence of the effectiveness of women's political power. Women all over America

A short talk on national defense was given by Mrs. J. W. Murphy.

Highlighting the meeting, was a review by Mrs. Thomas Jett of "New Heaven, New Earth," by Arthur Goertz.

She pointed out that the main character in the book is a young doctor who has been in South America trying to combat yellow fever and find a cure.

The scene of the story is laid in Mandeville, La. It tells of the hurricane which struck there in 1912 and also of the colored people and their belief in voodooism.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Smith served refreshments to the following: Mrs. Thomas Jett, Mrs. J. H. McCormick, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. L. Wood.

Clothes Must Be Prepared Against Moths

Don't let your clothes or household goods be the prey of clothes moths and carpet beetles, advises Euna D. Spielman, home demonstration agent, U. S. U. agricultural Extension service. These destructive household pests are responsible for some 350 million dollars in fabric damage each year, she asserts.

"Now is the season to make sure that your clothes are not attacked by moths and carpet beetles," she suggests. "Today it is easier than ever before to get rid of these pests and keep your home and possessions free of them. This is because research has showed best methods of controlling them as well as a number of chemical preparations that can be used safely and effectively in the home against them. Newest of these is EQ-53 which can be put in the water when laundering washable woolens, like blankets, sweaters, socks and scarves, for example."

Complete directions for success in the battle against these insects are given in the publication "Clothes Moths and Carpet Beetles" (HG-24). Single copies are free from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

Moving Company Check Is Urged

In furtherance of its community protection program Jim Williams, secretary of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, today issued a warning to local residents on problems connected with the moving of one's household effects from one place to another.

"In few fields is the reliability of a firm more important," Williams stated. "The industry is by nature geared to the highest standards of trustworthiness, yet like most industries it suffers a minority of unethical and incompetent practitioners."

In urging the consumer to check on the reliability of moving companies, Williams emphasized caution on the low estimate employed as "bait" to obtain jobs by the unscrupulous, the necessity of knowing the exact terms of insurance coverage in case of loss or damage, the importance of reading every paper, particularly in accepting delivery, before signing; the need for a thorough discussion with the mover about the various responsibilities, some of which are definitely the customer's, before making the contract.

Show Place On North Third St. Will Be Razed

One of the finest residences of Monroe that has been for years pointed out as a show place, will be razed. It is the former Bernhardt home at 311 North Third street. This elaborate residence, with four stories in which were twenty-six rooms, was erected by the late A. H. Bernhardt several years after the turn in the century. At that time it cost, it is stated, about $60,000, which in modern terms would mean three times that sum if not more in 1954.

"For years this house with its towering cupola and sweeping porches, was rated with the Layton Castle as the two great houses of Monroe," stated A. D. Bernhardt when interviewed by a News-Star reporter. "The big house was often the place where brides and grooms of discrimination went temporarily to stay upon their return from the honeymoon. One of these was the late Aubrey and Mrs. Haas, and too many others to easily list them all."

"The reason we are to raze this building is because it has deteriorated so greatly that to put it back in condition would cost as much as $15,000 and it would require that we charge a rent so high that it would be impossible to obtain a tenant."

Mrs. Mary Bridges has for the past 13 years maintained a high class home for business and professional men in the Bernhardt home. She will shortly move across the street to another building to continue her service to the public.

That many memories cluster around this great home but he said that it seems advisable to remove it at this time. The site may be used by someone for another downtown store building or it may be put to service as a parking lot.

er about the various responsibilities, some of which are definitely the customer's, before making the contract.

"The customer should realize that the low estimate of a mover is not binding on him," Williams said, "because the final charge that must be collected from the customer on interstate shipments must be based upon the tariff schedule administered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, or for local moves on hourly rates, fairly standardized by labor and other costs."

A carrier who violates regulations is subject to loss of his license or fines, when operating under supervision of the ICC or state regulatory bodies, but it must be understood that adjudication of individual complaints is not undertaken by such bodies.

"Unsatisfactory experiences should be reported to the Chamber of Commerce," the Chamber secretary said, "so that we will have a factual record of customer experience and thus be able to assist those who check on the reliability of firms before signing with them. This is particularly true when it is discovered that a mover is evading regulations."

Williams quoted rules recommended by the National Better Business Bureau with which the local Chamber is affiliated which consumers should follow in deciding on a mover.

"1. Be sure you understand that an estimate is not binding on the company and that the total charge can not be computed until the job is completed.

"2. Avoid the mover whose estimate is substantially lower than his competition.

"3. Be sure you secure adequate insurance protection to cover loss and damage.

"4. Read the contract before signing and understand exactly what your obligations are.

"5. Deal only with a reliable mover."

The senator did not say who had made the affidavits.

Ward 5.

A heated debate between a Ward five juror and other jurors of the Ouachita Parish police jury arose over sanitation in the area outside of the city of West Monroe.

Mose Bales told the jury that the situation at the present time was contrary to the regulations of the state sanitary board and if "we don't do something an epidemic is going to strike these areas," he said.

Bales told the jury that he had contacted the Ernest M. Leeb Co. of New Orleans, and asked that they re-open their survey of the situation. A majority of the jurors voiced disapproval of the company and suggested that other companies be called upon to make a survey.

After the heated debate on the sanitation question the matter was dropped completely by the jury.

The jury voted to pay $635 for the trimming of trees on the courthouse lawn. They also issued whiskey and beer permits to Silas Jiles, Ward 3, Francis Warren, Ward 3, Allen Lambert, Ward 10, and Hattie Godfrey, Ward 5.

Lawrence Pettit, Ward Three juror, presented a resolution calling for the establishment of juvenile detention homes by the welfare department. The jury passed the resolution which stated that it would be presented to the state police jury convention for adoption.

The police juror from Ward 7, W. O. Roberts, asked the jury to pass a resolution calling on the state public service commissioner to seek better telephone service for the rural areas west of the Ouachita river.

Costello Lawyer Called By Gov't In Evasion Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—Lawyer George Wolf, who has represented gambler Frank Costello for a number of years, has been subpoenaed by the prosecution as a witness at his federal court trial on income tax evasion charges.

Wolf, asked about the subpoena yesterday, said: "I assume they will not be going into any confidential matters between us."

This was an indication that if the prosecution did so, he would invoke the privilege of lawyer-client relations.

A newsmen asked Wolf whether he thought it unusual for a lawyer so close to Costello to be called by the government. He replied:

"No—it may be that they need my testimony as to particular transactions. Other lawyers will be called, too."

In the tax evasion trial Costello is being defended by Leo C. Fennelly and Joseph L. Delaney.

Costello is on trial on a four-count indictment charging evasion of at least $73,437 in income taxes for the years 1948 through 1949. If convicted he could draw up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each count.

George Morton Levy, counsel to Roosevelt Raceway, a harness race track on Long Island, has been reported subpoenaed by the government as a witness. He has testified at investigations that he paid Costello $80,000 over a four-year period to keep bookmakers away from the track.

Wolf sat beside Costello when he was a witness at televised hearings of the Kefauver Committee. Costello served 14 months in the Federal Correctional Institute at Milan, Mich., for walking out on the committee and for refusing to answer a number of key questions.

There was no indication from government counsel as to what testimony would be sought from Wolf and Levy or when they might be called. The trial is in its eighth day today.

Charles R. Murphy was on the witness stand for the government yesterday for the second day. He is accountant for Philip (Dandy Phil) Kastel, an associate of Costello in New Orleans slot machine operations.

Murphy told Judge F. X. McGohey and the jury more about the financial affairs of Costello, Kastel and their associates in Louisiana ventures.

sponsible for kicking off the FHA investigation.

"We found a lot of people were making loans for a good deal more than the (apartment) buildings cost to construct," he told a news conference.

"They would then collapse their loans and pocket the profit."

Housing Administrator Cole has said that in 231 cases already uncovered apartment promoters have netted 75 millions in "windfall" profits and that "many, many more" such cases are likely to be turned up.

Cole acknowledged yesterday that he was told of the alleged abuses nine months ago by both Byrd and the Internal Revenue Service, and he explained the delay in taking action stemmed from "considerable research and study" needed to tell "how widespread the abuses were."

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said in a statement he feels it is past time to give the FHA "a thorough going-over." He said he has evidence of "at least 90 recent instances of FHA loans obtained under fraud in the single area of Champaign-Urbana, Ill."

Douglas released copies of recent correspondence with Holliday in which the senator charged that a single lending agency had made these loans "obtained under fraud" for remodeling, alteration and improvement of homes.

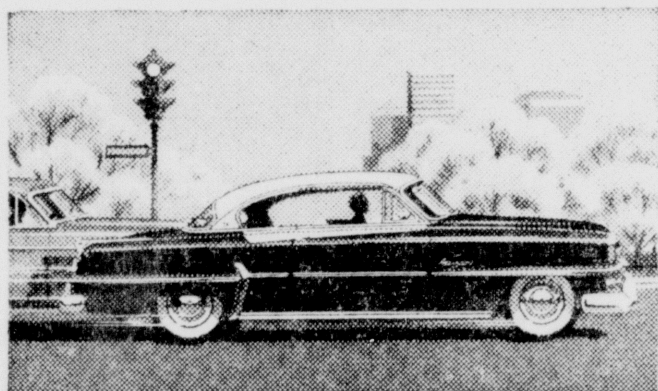

Holliday replied in a letter that FHA had made an investigation and had turned over a report to the attorney general "for such action as his office may find warranted."

Future Role Of Public Welfare Posed At Meet

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Paul Benner, assistant director of local welfare services, said yesterday Louisiana "should start immediate planning to determine the future role of public welfare."

Benner told parish welfare directors that Louisiana public welfare will swing away from direct assistance in the future because of expanding federal benefits. "We can anticipate some time within 15 years a decided decrease in old payments because of this national trend toward insurance protection," he said.

Benner said in the future welfare operations will swing toward increased services for children, greater vocational rehabilitation for the physically and mentally handicapped and closer team work between mental and welfare hospitals.

Anderson Has Regrets About Strauss Action

HOBBS, N. M. (AP)—Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM), a member of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, says he "regrets very much the cancellation of clearance" for Dr. Robert Oppenheimer.

Anderson said the wartime A-bomb director "did fine work on development of the A-bomb, but I know something of the circumstances which moved Adm. Strauss to the action taken."

Anderson did not elaborate on his knowledge of circumstances of the action yesterday but said, "I still hope we can find a way so that a man of Dr. Oppenheimer's great talent can continue to serve this country."

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: You mentioned in your sermon that we should attend and take part in church activities. What I would like to know — can't a person read and study his Bible without attending church? N.S.J.

ANSWER: Your question reminds me of the old couplet, "If every member were just like me, what kind of a church would my church be?" Surely you must see that if every Christian were to do as you suggest, there would soon be very few people who would want to read their Bible, even alone. The Bible teaches that it is the duty of Christians to assemble themselves together (Heb. 10:25). Again, we have the powerful example of our Lord Jesus, for we read, "And as His custom was, He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day." Undoubtedly there would be some things about the service which would not have the approval of our Lord; yet, nevertheless, He still went regularly and reverently to the synagogue. John Wesley used to say to his followers, "Remember you cannot be a Christian on your own." The fact is that we need the sympathy, support and fellowship of other believers, but there is also the fact that God seeks our worship (John 4:23).

Louisiana Hikes Negro School Funds 9 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Louisiana increased its expenditures on Negro schools more than nine per cent during the 1949-50 school year, according to a study by the U. S. Office of Education.

The median expenditure for a Negro classroom in Louisiana, according to the study, was $3,288 while the average expenditure for a white classroom was $5,222. The median annual expenditure per classroom unit for the nation was $4,391.

In contrast to Louisiana's 9.34 per cent increase in expenditures for Negro schools while the boost for white schools amounted to 3.8 per cent for the same period.

Do You Know Why?

Why do you Waste More Gasoline on Short Trips than on Long Ones?

Because on a short drive of 5 miles or less, your car engine never gets fully warmed up. And if you're still using out-of-balance gasoline—with too much emphasis on power—many of those heavy, slow-burning, power molecules are wasted because they fail to burn. What can you do about it? Change to Pan-Am Balanced Energy Gasoline. Instead of wasted power you get balanced power—even during warm-up!

Concert Checkup Set For Thursday

A check-up meeting for the workers of the Twin Cities Concert Association will be held Thursday at 5 p.m. at the headquarters in the lobby of Hotel Virginia. All workers are urged to attend so they can participate in the awarding of an attendance prize.

The one-week membership campaign will close on Saturday at 5 p.m. and after that no one can join for another year. Telephones are installed at the campaign headquarters to facilitate the handling of memberships. The numbers are: 5-2323, 5-2583, 5-1963, 5-1823. Officials urged everyone to call in early in order to be assured of a membership.

Mrs. L. Slade Brown said at headquarters today, "The Twin Cities Concert Association has been an important factor in the artistic growth of our twin cities and has made it possible for our community to hear such outstanding artists as: Lily Pons, James Melton, Mischa Elman, Bartlett and Robertson, Igor Gorin, Rise Stevens, Patricia Munsel and many others."

Important attractions announced for next year's series are: Yehudi Menuhin considered to be the world's greatest violinist, Jussi Björling, leading Swedish tenor of the Metropolitan of whom it is said that Mrs. Enrico Caruso stated "He is the only living tenor who is worthy to wear the crown of Enrico." She gave Björling the costume Caruso wore in Pagliacci.

Members of the Twin Cities Concert Association consider it a singular achievement to have booked the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, with Antal Dorati, conductor. The fame of the noted organization, one of the oldest orchestras in America, has been carried to the far corners of the earth through radio, records and by word of mouth of artists who have appeared with it and music lovers who have heard it.

Large Throngs Attend Services At Cen. Baptist

Evangelist Carl Bassett continues to draw large crowds each night in revival services at the Central Baptist Church using his chalk paintings and beautiful pictures thrown on the screen in connection with his stirring gospel sermon. "The Southern Cross" was the theme of his message on Tuesday night.

He stated that: "One night near Singapore, I looked up in the sky and saw the Southern Cross looking like blazing diamonds set in black velvet." "Look at that Man on Calvary. His body lashed by and wind, limbs cramped, His hands can hold nothing but red nails, lips stained by blood, face swollen, eyes tired from sleepless nights, and blinded by blood. What was the reason for that red horror? It was to save you from a more terrible horror."

"Two hundred and thirty-four times in the New Testament God declares there is a Hell. Jesus preached about Hell ten times more than about Heaven."

"Two men, one in hell and one in this pulpit, both warn you not to go to that place of torment. The only escape is by wrapping yourself in that blood-stained robe of Jesus."

These services at the Central Baptist Church will continue through Sunday night. The subject for Wednesday night has been announced as "The Blush of Calvary." Anyone can earn a picture by bringing at least ten persons who have not attended a previous service during this series of revival meetings.

Altrusa International Stressing Vocational Aid

More than 360 Altrusa Clubs representing some 13,000 members are going to get a close-up look at the vocational opportunities for older women this month, with the help and cooperation of International Altrusa headquarters in Chicago, states Miss Lillie Glenn, publicity chairman of the local Altrusa Club.

"Vocational Aid to Mature Women" is the theme for Altrusans in April, and the members in the United States, Bermuda, Canada, Great Britain, Guatemala, Mexico and Puerto Rico will spend considerable time preparing exhibits, displays and projects revolving around this important theme.

Altrusa Clubs throughout the nation are observing Founders' Fund Vocational Aid, the unusual project in which Altrusa International makes available through its local clubs, outright grants from $50 to $250 to older women for training in a skill, equipment needed in self-employment, or personal rehabilitation, that would enable a woman to become profitably employed.

Women who have passed the so-called college age who must earn a living after being out of the job market for years and need a brush-up course in typing, shorthand, or some former business or industrial skill or one who needs money to pay for a business course or a vocational course such as practical nursing are a few of the many who may qualify for these outright grants, Miss Glenn states.

Today, Altrusans everywhere have an intensified concern about the place of women in our economic life and the progress being made through research and experimentation to help handicapped youths enjoy the satisfactions and self-respect that comes through some measure of participation in the life of the community. Two aspects of this field of vocational information ever uppermost in the mind of an Altrusan is "What is being done for the more mature woman worker" and "What is being done in the training and guidance of our handicapped youths of today."

In the field of training for youth Altrusa members are working daily with the cerebral palsy children at Selman Field School. Much progress is being made by the children enrolled and even those with speech difficulties can make themselves understood readily enough. The special tables, toys, classroom equipment and mechanical aids used in training the youngsters to take their places in society was financed largely through the efforts of Altrusa Club, Telfis Grotto and parents of children with cerebral palsy. It is the desire of Altrusa Club, sponsors of the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Northeast Louisiana, to have additional teachers and equipment for the children enrolled in the fall class. This can only be accomplished through the fund-raising effort of the association which will begin on May 1.

Miss Ann Mickel, prominent business executive, has given much of her time and talent to this school. She will address the local Altrusa Club on "Vocational Aid" at their birthday banquet on Thursday night at the Rendezvous. The speaker, office manager and co-owner of J. Mickel Wholesale Co., is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College. She is a member of the Covenant Presbyterian Church and holds important office in that church. She has been very active in promoting civic projects in the Twin Cities and is always called upon to do some important job for the betterment of the community. She is corresponding secretary and board member of UCPA. Miss Mickel is a constant visitor to the cerebral palsy school located at Selman Field where she is known by all the children. It was through the efforts of Miss Mickel that the school was established, Miss Glenn stated.

On the local scene members are working to find a mature woman who would like to set up her own business in her home or take some special course to prepare for a better paying job, in the face of increased family responsibility. Applications can be obtained from the vocational information chairman of each Altrusa Club. This committee, made up of three members, Mrs.

Adrienne Carr, Mrs. Erlene Adams and Mrs. Jewel Durham, has the authority to look for and carefully screen the applicants on a basis of need and aptitude. It is the duty of this committee to give vocational information to the mature woman and to be of service to women engaged in or entering business for the first time.

Redskins Defeat Demons, 6-0; Will Meet 'Cats Here

Beaten only once in Gulf States Conference play, the Northeast Louisiana State Indians return home today from a 6-0 conquest of Northwestern at Natchitoches yesterday to engage the Wildcats of Louisiana College on the Northeast diamond here this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Coach "Woody" Boyles' Redskins can entrench themselves in second place in the Gulf race with a decision over the Louisiana College outfit, and Joe Jordan freshman hurler from Chatham is expected to take to the mound against the 'Cats.

Another pair of freshmen, "Bo" Laird from Crowley and Delmar Ray Thompson from Bastrop pitched the Tribe past the Demons yesterday, giving up only six hits while their mates worked over a pair of Northwestern hurlers for ten hits.

Laird, the winning pitcher, worked until relieved by Thompson in the seventh inning. Southpaw Jerry Lavapere started for Northwestern to receive the defeat. Morris Bruce relieved the portside in the fifth.

Northeast notched its second league win against the single loss to S.L.I. by tacking up single runs in the second and third innings and wrapping up the game with a five-run package in the fifth. The Tribe backed Laird and Thompson with errorless ball.

Attack Game Effective For Tony Trabert

By ERNEST BARTON

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—National tennis champion Tony Trabert of the University of Cincinnati showed that an attacking game is effective on any type of surface by beating NCAA champion Hamilton Richardson of Tulane.

Trabert's "big" game, better adapted to the so-called fast surface of grass and asphalt, kept constant pressure on Richardson and forced him into numerous errors yesterday to win 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

The match was played on Tulane's composition clay courts, usually considered as a surface better suited for defensive play.

Tulane, however, won its 32nd straight dual meet 7-1. Trabert's victory over Richardson, the nation's No. 6 player, was the only one his school scored. Richardson's loss was his first in 32 college matches.

Cincinnati continues its Southern tour by meeting Loyola today. Loyola has lost all five of its tennis matches this season.

The two Davis Cuppers treated the crowd to a great exhibition of forcing tennis—but both had trouble holding their serves. Trabert lost his six times and Richardson dropped his seven.

Richardson won the first set 6-4, after trailing 4-3. Then, with the aid of some beautiful passing shots off both backhand and forehand, went ahead 3-0 in the second set.

At that point, Richardson appeared almost unbeatable. But the husky Trabert continued to force and began to find the range with his accurate volleys. He reeled off six games to win the set as Richardson started erring.

In the third set, Richardson pushed in front 3-2, but Trabert continued his net-rushing tactics and took the next three games for the set and match, closing it out on the second match point.

Summary:
Tony Trabert (C) beat Hamilton Richardson 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.
Jose Agüero (T) beat Bill Hadley 6-2, 6-2.
Harmon Collins (T) beat Tom Qualey 6-0, 8-1.
Henry Jungle (T) beat Bobby Doll 6-1, 6-1.
Buddy Lomax (T) beat Harry Lambert 6-0, 6-2.
Barney Donnelly (T) beat Joe Lawson 6-0, 6-1.
Richardson-Jungle (T) leading Trabert-Hadley 7-5, 4-2 when match halted because of darkness.
Agüero-Collins (T) beat Lambert-Lawson 6-0, 6-1.
Donnelly-Lomax (T) beat Qualey-Don Renner 6-2, 6-4.

LaMotta In Comeback Tonight Vs Kilgore

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—More than a year after a brutal beating by Danny Nardico sent him into retirement, former middleweight champion Jake LaMotta will be seen on television tonight in a comeback effort against Billy Kilgore of Miami.

The Bronx Bull has been made a 3-1 favorite over the unrated Kilgore in a 10-round main event which will be telecast by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

It starts at 10 p.m., EST.

Nardico stopped LaMotta in Miami on New Year's Eve, 1952. The Tampa toughie knocked Jake down for the first time in his career, then beat the helpless ex-champ so badly he was unable to come out for the eighth round.

"I felt sick and washed up after that," LaMotta said. "I could have kept on fighting. I turned down some good offers to fight Nardico again and to meet Bobo Olson and Randy Turpin. I didn't feel like fighting any more.

"Then my weight crawled up to 195 and I felt lousy. I went back to training and got down to 168 and began feeling great again.

"In the gym, I flattened some pretty good guys who're still fighting. That convinced me I had enough left to come back. I'm only 32 and I think I'll do all right

Rio Grande Expels Bevo; Cage Ace, Coach 'Fishing'

RIO GRANDE, Ohio, April 14 (AP)—Gangling Bevo Francis wasn't available for comment Tuesday after being expelled by Rio Grande College for various scholastic difficulties.

Big Bevo who broke practically every basketball scoring record in the book in his two years of college play with the Redmen, ignored the whole thing and went fishing.

"Kinfolk" around Wellsville, where he gained high school cage fame, said they didn't know what Bevo thought about the expulsion, just where he was at the time, or when he'd be back.

Also unavailable for a chat with newsmen was Newt Oliver, the fast-talking coach of Rio Grande. Newt's landlady at Rio Grande said he and Mrs. Oliver departed Tuesday morning in the family car, but she didn't say where they were going or when they'd return.

Some folk along the Ohio River said they had a hunch Newt and Bevo might be together watching a trotline baited for catfish, and figuring out what to say when they come into town again.

Oliver, who has had a running battle going with college officials for several weeks, was irate Monday night after the school's committee on instruction said Bevo had been dropped because of "an excessive number of unexcused absences, failure to make up more than one of his missed mid-term examinations, and failure to attend any classes the last two weeks."

In tones of disbelief, Newt asked: "Who expelled him? Somebody's overshot his authority. Nobody ever has been kicked out before the end of the term before."

Before he had a chance to cool off, Oliver repeated that "I came here with Bevo, and we'll leave together."

Francis' expulsion practically halts any attempt to transfer to another college for continuance of his basketball career, but Oliver said "Bevo won't go hungry."

The little coach and his big protegee may wind up with their own barn-storming unit, or in the professional ranks. Oliver hinted as much last week, but insisted this was a poor time to make a change—with the basketball season just ending.

Francis, a 20-year-old sophomore who learned his basketball by shooting at a hoop in a hayloft, holds the small college season scoring record. The 6-foot-9 center scored 1,255 points last season for a 27-

HAMMOND, La., April 14 (Special)—With an early Gulf States Conference baseball lead, Southeastern Louisiana College leaves the campus Thursday for games with strong service teams in Mississippi and Florida.

The Lions return home April 20, playing a game with Lake Charles AFB and following day host Loyola's Wolfpack baseballers.

Coach Pat Kenelly's Southeasterners added their third conference win last Friday, taking a 7-6 slugfest over Louisiana Tech. The other G.S.C. baseball powers, Southeastern and Northwestern, dropped conference games to Louisiana College and McNeese, respectively, to put

Okay Tax Exemptions For New Industries

BATON ROUGE, April 14 (AP)—The Louisiana Board of Commerce and Industry today approved tax exemptions for 110 million dollars in new industrial facilities expected to provide 1,650 jobs.

Louisiana grants 10-year exemptions from state and local property taxes for the value of new plants and equipment. Plant sites and inventories are not included.

Elmer Conner, executive director of the Commerce and Industry Department, said the 110 million is the largest total since January, 1952, when the board approved a total of 158 million.

Largest application today involved facilities of Petroleum Chemicals Corp. in Lake Charles valued at 29 million dollars.

Conner said groundbreaking for the firm's butyl rubber plant there is scheduled Nov. 1, with construction expected to be completed during September, 1956.

Also approved were a $27,958,000 application in the Lake Charles area for an addition by Cities Service Corp., and a $23 million dollar application by Anheuser-Busch for a plant in Jefferson Parish.

Other applications approved: Allied Chemical & Dye Corp., Baton Rouge, $2,900,000; Esso Standard Oil, Baton Rouge, $11,987,000; Anchor Gasoline Corp., Acadia Parish, $99,048; Arabi Packing Co., Arabi, $60,395; Baumer Foods, Inc., New Orleans, $650,000; Calcasieu Shipbuilding Corp., Sulphur, $16,875,000; California Co., Jefferson Parish, $450,000; Columbian Carbon Co., St. Mary Parish, $2,277,200; Dixie Brewing Co., New Orleans, $224,000.

International Harvester Co., New Orleans, $321,672; Lone Star Cement Corp., New Orleans, $1,798,028; Precision Tools and Manufacturing Co., Arabi, $27,325; Raymond Concrete Pile Co., Inc., Assumption Parish, $389,605; and Shell Chemical Corp., Norco, $8,500,000.

Deserter For Thirty Years Gives Self Up

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14—UP—An elderly ex-corporal turned up at the San Francisco Presidio Tuesday, prepared to go to the guardhouse for deserting "30 years, two months and eight days ago."

Stephen M. White, 60, said he came back "because I want to clear my record." He said he wanted an administrative discharge under conditions that would allow him veteran's rights.

White's Army files showed he entered the Army with his Minnesota National Guard outfit in June 1917, and saw action in France. He was discharged in 1919 but re-enlisted again after a year as a civilian.

He was mustered out again in July 1922, but re-enlisted in December of that year. The next time he left service was on Feb. 5, 1924, when he "just got tired of the Army." He was stationed at Kelly Field, Texas, at the time.

In the next 20 years, White farmed in Missouri and Wisconsin, married and reared four children. The family came to San Francisco in 1944.

Since then, White has worked as a ship's electrician at San Francisco Naval shipyard and for civilian contractors in defense work at Guam.

Both jobs have required security checks, but apparently no one ever caught up with his military record.

White said another reason he wanted an administrative discharge was that he needs a veteran's preference to keep his navy shipyard job.

Army officials sent him home after obtaining all the facts in the case. White showed up at the Presidio with his toilet kit in the expectation of being arrested.

Personnel officers said they are forwarding White's sworn statement to the Pentagon for action.

Can Lay Claim To One Of Fastest Sales—For Nothing

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Dave Kerr, an insurance salesman, can lay claim today to one of the fastest sales of his career and he didn't get a dime out of it.

He was selling the state of Oklahoma as a wonderful place to live. His customer was a Good Samaritan, Jack Rogers, a Mohawk, Ind., restaurant operator who sold out and was moving his family to Oregon when he stopped to push Kerr's stalled auto on the Turner Turnpike.

That was last week. Kerr, an enthusiastic Oklahoma booster, didn't let the traveler escape without a Chamber of Commerce speech.

The Indianan was impressed. He stopped to investigate business opportunities. Yesterday, Kerr said, Rogers telephoned him he had bought a restaurant and would make his home here.

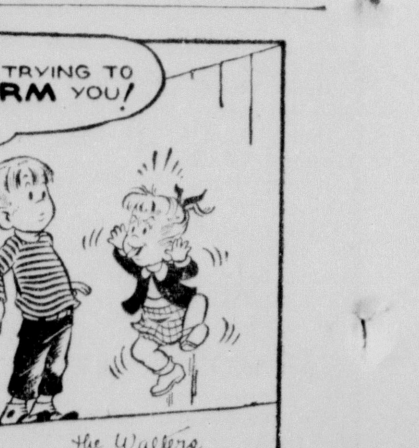

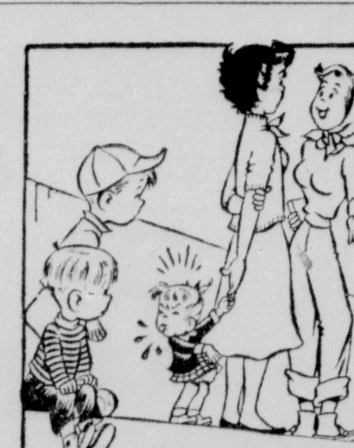

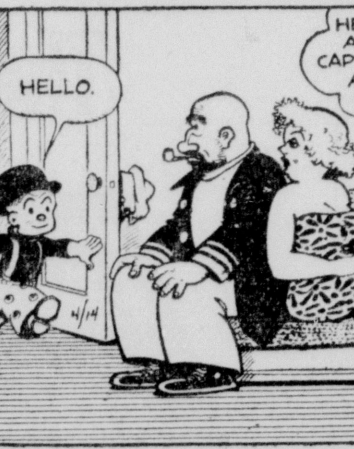

Delaware got its name from an early governor of Virginia, Lord de la Warre.

Eartha Kitt Top Draw In Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Six years ago, a frightened little dancer played a night club here as one of the Katherine Dunham troupe. Today Eartha Kitt is the headliner at the same spot—and still frightened.

The Eartha Kitt show at El Rancho Vegas is the top ticket in this fabulous town, meaning that reservations are the toughest to get. The sultry songstress' records are selling in the millions. She is the star of a current movie hit, "New Faces." She has enough offers from TV, movies, and nightclubs to keep her busy for a decade.

But she's scared.

"It wasn't so bad in the theater in New York, because I was accustomed to the theater," she remarked between shows. "But when I played the Mocambo (where she scored her first big hit), I was terrified. And when I opened here, I was so frightened I didn't think I would be able to go on. I was in a trance during most of the show."

It may be some consolation for her to know that George M. Cohan once said a performer couldn't be good unless he's a little scared before going onstage. And Eartha is good.

She's no beauty, resembling a dusky Spike Jones. But she has a fascinating, alive face which can range from a savage look to one of tenderness. She prowls around the stage with a feline grace. Her songs are as intimate as a wire-tapped boudoir.

For much of her success, she can thank the Los Angeles City Council. Certain councilmen objected to her material at a banquet here for the King and Queen of Greece last November. The mayor also chimed in that the songs seemed too racy for royal ears. The King, on the other hand, said he and his wife were delighted with the evening's entertainment.

"There is no doubt that the council gave my career the big push," said Eartha, who was nevertheless abashed by the whole affair. "People began buying my records to see if this girl was as bad as they said."

This is probably the first time in legislative history that city fathers have established a star. The furor came just in time to plug Eartha's disc, "Santa Baby," a catchy combination of sex and Santa Claus.

Eartha is a gal who refuses to be typed. She started out in show business as a dancer. But after going to Paris with the Dunham dancers, she turned to valetizing. She also did a play with Orson Welles.

Now she's looking to other fields. She intends to start taking classical singing lessons. I asked her why.

"Because I was offered the film version of 'Carmen Jones,'" she replied. "That kind of singing will take a bit of practicing."

French Quarter High On City's Cleanup List

NEW ORLEANS —UP— The bawdy French Quarter, which probably would be considered a slums anywhere else, is high on the city's cleanup list.

But only insofar as the cleanup does not "ruin" the historic architecture of the 10 X 16 square area, which draws an estimated $350,000 annually in tourist trade.

Both Mayor Chep Morrison and the Vieux Carre (French Quarter) Commission today asked the city department of slum clearance and housing rehabilitation to tackle the area this spring.

They will be given a free hand in cleaning up unsanitary and unsightly conditions, so long as it does not affect preservation of the historic quaintness of the old square.

The Vieux Carre commission said it was afraid the unsightly and unsanitary conditions would hurt the tourist trade.

Traipsing Of Twosomes

HOLLYWOOD, April 4. - Dear Staff: I'm going to wax a little old-fashioned — just a little. Probably have some verbal rocks or written shafts coming my way — and maybe some sneers. Wouldn't be a bit surprised one way or another. I've been pondering, maybe wondering. Just what are the social conventions nowadays? For the past year I have sat in my Hollywood grandstand seat, and have watched with interest the constant traipsing of movie twosomes here and there about the world without benefit of a convention we call marriage.

Well, sir, of course, there are those who will rise up and demand: "What's so terrible about that?" Nothing terrible. I'll admit it's a personal matter with these people, if you shave me down to a fine point. Maybe in most cases, it is perfectly proper — perfectly. Nevertheless, I keep on pondering, for these same movie folks eventually appear in the films or on television as heroes or heroines — and smart young men and women about the country decide that their movie favorites can do no wrong.

In recent weeks the situation I'm discussing has crept up constantly. Often over the year we have seen the names of a pair in New York, we'll say; a week later they are in London or Paris or elsewhere. Well? Perhaps the conventions have not been violated. But rarely do we see the names of prominent industrialists, or bankers, or merchant princes traveling with some woman about over the world. They're not as well known as the movie celebrities. They do not want that sort of publicity. The movie pair can't avoid it — and in most instances, they don't care to avoid it.

Making a mountain out of a mole hill? Could be — and if so — I'm sorry. We are prone to offer excuses for the many divorces in the film colony. The apologists will say that too many romances develop between stars playing their romantic roles in pictures. Could be — in some instances. But I contend that where two people are sincere in their love and respect for each other, the movie love scenes will be tossed aside for what they are — acting. What do you fellows think? I still insist that I have the right to ponder — even to wonder. Or have I?

Liquid Fertilizer
Firm Here To Be
In Purchase Group

According to reliable information, the Dixie Liquid Fertilizer Company, with offices on the Sterlington Road, will be purchased along with nine other American fertilizer distributing agencies located throughout the nation by Chemical Enterprises, Inc., of New York.

The purchase of all outstanding stock of the fertilizer and equipment distributors is being facilitated through options held by the New York firm.

Daniel B. Curll, Jr., president of the New York corporation, said in New York that the companies will operate as subsidiaries of that organization.

Nelson Abell, manager of the local firm, was out of town last night and could not be contacted for a statement on the sale.

The other companies are Louisiana Liquid Fertilizer Co., Shreveport; Texasammonia Gas, Inc., McAllen, Texas; Texasammonia, Inc., El Paso, Texas; Palouse Ammonia, Inc., Endicott, Wash.; Whitman Ammonia Co., Oakesdale, Wash.; Columbia Ammonia Co., Huntsville, Wash.; Agricultural Equipment Co., Endicott, Wash.; and Agricultural Wholesale Equipment Co., Shreveport.

Annual Career
Days Planned At Northeast State

Career Days at Northeast State were considered so successful by the Commerce Department that its faculty is planning the project as an annual event.

Consideration is already being given to the proposal of expanding the program so that personnel from large business firms in other Louisiana towns will be added to professional men and women of the Twin Cities who took part in the project.

The commerce faculty agreed that this year's program showed great improvement over last spring's Career Days. The basic reason for the advancement, W. L. Perkins, department head, explained is attributed to panel discussion planning.

Preceding the meetings, questions raised by business students were sent to professional men and women who were invited to take part in the panels. The plan proved an advantage to those who were participating in the discussion as well as to members of the various classes. The result was practical in that professional persons were given a more definite idea as to problems which students faced.

This year's program was designed ed to include two experienced business persons on a panel, with a Northeast State instructor serving as moderator. The project was both time saving and effective in contributing practical information, Perkins added.

About 50 business men and women took part in Monday's affair and about 30 in Tuesday's discussions.

The talks resulted in students receiving knowledge and opinions regarding opportunities which different business fields offer from standpoints of financial remuneration, chances of promotion and challenges which the business world holds.

Groups also discussed courses which students might find advantageous in adding to their curricula or classes which they should emphasize to improve their status.

The areas of business training which were considered in the panels included: advertising, typewriting, shorthand, dictation and transcription, office machines, office practice, transportation, investment, real estate, accounting, auditing, retail buying, sales management, secretarial science, introduction to business, business law and insurance.

Three-Act Play
Set Thursday By
Calhoun Seniors

A three act farce-comedy entitled "Love Is Too Much Trouble" will be presented by the Calhoun Senior class Thursday at the Calhoun High School Auditorium.

With an atmosphere of Spring, the play begins shortly before the Junior Prom at "Iny Gate College". Most of the action takes place in the college's favorite restaurant the "Poison Pot". The play attempts to depict college students who mix too much social life with their educational pursuits.

The comedy directed by Mrs. Louis Craig, is to begin promptly at 8 p.m. with admission at the door being 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. The cast is as follows:

Louise Humble, a harassed proprietor of the restaurant, Tommy Roan, college boy with troubles, Kenneth Coon, his chum with troubles also, Charles Staples, a student with a scientific theory, Becky Foster, a girl working her way through college, Betty Lee White, happy-go lucky college girl Rachel Williams, her sister, Nelda Nolan, a campus belle, Mary Alice Kilpatrick, college girl with Southern accent, Betty Barnes, a visiting high school senior, Dorothy Russell, her mother, Irving Sils, President of "Iny Gate," Violet Stead, Dean of women and John H. Clark, a well meaning visitor.

Cut In Insurance
Rate Is Approved

The Louisiana Insurance Rating Commission has announced approval of a filing for a reduction of insurance rates on extended coverage and windstorm insurance for the state which will amount to 10 percent under the former rates.

The Fire Insurance Division of the Commission has studied the downward trend of insurance rates and two months ago arrived at the conclusion that it was in order to ask for a rate reduction. The reduced rates will go into effect on April 15.

The Commission noted that the 10 percent reduction would result in a saving of over a million dollars annually to the insurance paying public, and would allow Louisiana citizens to enjoy the lowest rates of any coastal state from Texas to, and including, Virginia.
